

RE: Pre-Public exams and school interventions

Dear Parent, Carer,

It has been a positive first week back for Year 11 which has been recognised by all staff, they have received the greatest number of positives on Talaxy as a year group across the school which is a fantastic achievement. As we finish the second week of this half term I would like to reiterate the importance of revision and preparation in readiness for the first set of Pre-Public (mock) examinations starting Monday 30th October.

In tutor time, and assemblies, we have been looking at being organised to support personal preparation and we have focused on several revision strategies. All students have been given a revision support guide to help them manage and structure their revision. Please encourage them to use the content of this book to help guide them. In addition, some students have also been provided with bespoke interventions during this time. It is essential that your son/daughter uses the time wisely over this half term and gets into good revision habits.

Once the Pre-Public examinations have finished we will launch our next phase of in school and after school interventions. After half term your son/daughter will receive their personalised tutor time and after school intervention session allocation. It is our expectation that all students attend after school interventions to support their preparations for the examinations next summer.

If you have any questions about the Pre-Public examinations or the school interventions please do not hesitate to contact me.

Yours faithfully
